High Court appeal of 'horrendous' pub ban

A MAN banned from every pub in Haverhill is at the centre of a major test case on the legality of a weapon to tackle pub violence.

Francis Boyle, of Elm Close, in the town, said the "illegal and unfair" ban was having a "horrendous" impact on his life.

Judges will now have to decide at a full High Court hearing whether Haverhill Pubwatch, which imposed the year's ban – later extended for another two years – can be challenged through a judicial review.

The ruling could affect other community-based pubwatch schemes introduced to encourage sensible drinking and reduce drink-related crime.

In his application for judicial review, Mr Boyle is seeking a ruling that he was the victim of an illegal and irrational decision and that he was denied the right to a fair hearing, infringing Article 6 of the European Convention on Human Rights.

On Monday Mr Justice Simon, sitting at London's High Court, ruled that he had "an arguable case" that should go to a full hearing.

Mr Boyle said later: "The ban doesn't just affect you going into pubs. It affects restaurants and any other premises that are licensed and it destroys your life.

"You feel as if you are under some sort of curfew. It makes life horrendous."

He says he and another man were both banned from all licensed premises in Haverhill for a year in February 2007.

The ban was imposed following an incident at the Black Horse pub in Haverhill, in which Mr Boyle was said in papers before the court to have been attacked by a man called Roy Sullivan.

Both were made subject of year-long banning orders from Haverhill Pubwatch pubs in February 2007 and Mr Boyle's ban was extended.

Biotechnology firm offers a virtual visit

STUDENTS can get an insight into the lives of scientists at one of the world's leading biotechnology firms thanks to a new classroom resource.

Haverhill-based Genzyme has launched a new CD-ROM called VIEW/Genzyme to allow students to explore the working lives of scientists at the company.

Among the first to try it were the students at the town's Samuel Ward Arts and Technology College last Thursday.

It aims to give young people a chance to explore a wide variety of workplaces despite barriers that prevent real site visits such as health and safety.

The programme can be used as a demonstration tool by a teacher or by students working as individuals or groups gathering work-based evidence for their vocational portfolios. It meets the needs of the new applied GCSE in science and the new programme for science at Key Stage 4 – Science for the 21st century.

It is one of a series of CDs to enable young people to explore Genzyme's five UK sites.

Agency does great job for our appeal

BY John Downing

Email:
editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

THE Weekly News £40,000 St Nicholas Hospice at Home Appeal will benefit from £50 every time a recruitment agency finds a person a job in Haverhill.

Crem Recruitment, based in the Market Square in Haverhill, has chosen St Nicholas Hospice Care as its charity for 2009.

It recruits both temporary and permanent staff across a wide range of sectors in an area covering Haverhill, Newmarket, Bury St Edmunds, Saffron Walden and Cambridge. It was established in 2007 and after a successful first year in business, it wants to put something back into the local community and decided the hospice is a very worthwhile cause.

Colin Saunders, managing director, said: "Our main contribution will be that we have decided to donate £50 for every person we place in a permanent job in Haverhill."

"We feel this is an all-round positive thing to do as our candidate gets a new job, the company in question gets a new member of staff, we receive our fee and St Nicholas Hospice Care receives £50."

"In addition to this,

we are soon to launch a brand new website and have decided to dedicate a whole page to the hospice, which will include links and telephone numbers encouraging others to get involved.

"We have also taken on all of the recruitment advertising needs for the hospice and we are currently advertising for two nursing assistants for their in-patient ward."

"We subscribe to a number of jobsites that can cost anything up to £400 just to advertise for one job so we feel that this will save them unnecessary expenditure.

"Finally, we plan to get involved where we can in any fundraising activities in the local area."

The Weekly News wants to raise £40,000 so patients in the Haverhill area can receive services in their own homes, rather than having to travel to the hospice in Bury St Edmunds.

The generosity of local people and organisations has already helped us collect more than £30,000.

Anyone interested in supporting the appeal can contact Ian Ross, community fundraiser for the hospice, on (01284) 747613.

Can you help?

WE CANNOT reach our target without your help – so the Weekly News wants to hear from anyone who is organising fundraising discos, barbecues, dances or other events to boost the hospice appeal.

Tell us what you are planning and we will help publicise your event to make sure it is a success. Contact Jo Deeks on (01440) 703 891 or email editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

If you already have an event organised, why not pledge all or part of the proceeds to the appeal and benefit from the extra publicity to help a really good cause.

You can also donate by phone on (01284) 715582, at the hospice shop in High Street, Haverhill, or the Weekly News office in Queen Street, Haverhill.

Warning to traders

RETAILERS have received a harsh warning from Suffolk Trading Standards – traders selling alcohol to anyone under the legal age will be caught and face enforcement action.

The warning follows an incident which led to the revoking of a shop's licence after staff were caught selling alcohol to children.

Trading Standards officers work closely with police and councils to crack down on the problem of underage alcohol sales to protect children and young people from harm.

Cllr Joanna Spicer, Suffolk County Council's portfolio holder for public protection, said: "This is an excellent example of how Suffolk County Council is working with its partners quickly and effectively to bring action against those who are selling alcohol to those who are underage."

"This should be seen as a stark warning that Trading Standards officers are everywhere – and if you're selling alcohol illegally we will catch you."

Rock contest ready to roll

THE line up for the 2009 Haverhill Rock competition has been announced.

The heats take place at Haverhill Arts Centre on Saturday, February 7, and on Friday, February 13, and doors open at 7.30pm for an 8pm start.

The first heat features heavy metal band Chaos Dynasty, pop/rock group Emma B-M and her Band, rockers Scream In Unison and pop-rockers Selective Walk.

On the bill for the second heat are blues rockers The Breach, rock-pop trio Spitfire John, and rock bands Federal Black 40 and Amberlight.

The winners get a chance to make a CD in a recording studio and a gig at the arts centre. Tickets cost £4 in advance and £5 on the night. To book tickets call the box office on (01440) 714140.

Local works get £1m funding boost

ONE million pounds have been allocated for local transport improvements in Suffolk.

The county council has allocated the cash for schemes to address more local needs and quality of life issues and £150,000 has been earmarked in 2009/10 for St Edmundsbury's locality fund.

Typical schemes that would qualify for funding include speed limits and speed reduction, cycling and pedestrian works, public transport and traffic management schemes.

Cllr Guy McGregor, portfolio holder for roads and transport, said: "This £1 million will give us an opportunity to provide practical solutions – such as a wider pavement or a bus shelter – to address some real local transport issues."

"The county council's cabinet agreed that decision-making about investment priorities for quality of life schemes should be delegated much more locally, empowering county councillors as part of locality arrangements to decide where money would be best spent in the local area."

Cllr McGregor will consider the bids and recommendations will be made to the council's director of environment and transport.

Locking out the 'lowest of low'

SECURITY has been beefed up at a cemetery after vandals repeatedly desecrated war graves. The graveyard in Withersfield Road, Haverhill, has been the target of yobs and arsonists who have damaged dozens of graves and caused thousands of pounds damage. But community police officer Pc Rupert Benyon started a campaign to tighten up security at the consecrated site and raised £28,000.

On Monday he was at the graveyard as the fencing around the site neared completion.

He said: "Vandals have damaged the war graves and the worst of it was when they kicked down about 20 to 30 graves. Another time they set fire to the toilet block, which caused £10,000 damage. "The cemetery has a lot of the meaning for Haverhill. Most people in the town know someone who has been buried here. "Drunks have left rubbish and excrement in the cemetery where relatives go to mourn loved ones. It's just unacceptable." Sgt Sarah Bartley, who was also there to support the campaign, said: "It's the lowest of the low." Housing association Havebury's improving places group donated £14,000 to the scheme. Neighbourhood manager

John Feveyer said: "We joined police to improve the lives of residents in nearby properties who have been plagued with anti-social behaviour. Since the fence has gone up it has been much quieter." Nick Keeble, arts and leisure manager for Haverhill Town Council, which donated £11,000 for the improvements, said: "It is a great example of the police, the town council and other agencies working together." Nine headstones were scratched and cracked when they were pushed over in 2004 and in the same year a fire was started scorching the war memorial.

The £30,000 public toilets in the cemetery also had to be closed after they were covered in graffiti, the sinks flooded and the toilets blocked with paper. Anti-climbing fencing has been erected at the Broadcroft Crescent entrance and new gates are planned for the Withersfield Road frontage.

Pub ban goes to High Court

In papers before the court, Mr Boyle argues he was the victim of an attack and did nothing other than defend himself.

He was not subsequently charged with any criminal offence.

Mr Boyle said he was excluded from the meeting which imposed the ban and was not given the chance to defend himself or contest the decision.

In February last year, Haverhill Pubwatch extended it for a further two-year period.

He attempted to contest the move but was told a month later the decision had been upheld following a secret ballot.

Mr Boyle's legal team submitted that as Haverhill Pubwatch operated in partnership with the Suffolk police force from the offices of the local town council and its chairman, Gordon Mussett, was also the town clerk, it was an unelected body that received confidential information from the police, and members of the public had no alternative but to submit to its jurisdiction.

The local licensing authority insisted on licensees being members of Pubwatch as part of licensing procedures. These were all factors that made it susceptible to judicial review.

Fury as thieves steal autistic boy's bicycle

BY Raymond Brown

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

AN AUTISTIC paperboy is distraught after thieves stole his beloved bike.

They struck as Toby Cook was on his round delivering copies of our sister paper, the Cambridge News.

The 14 year old was shocked to find his bike missing. It was given to him by his parents as a Christmas present.

His father, Trevor, 57, of Arrendene Road, Haverhill, said: "He came rushing into the house and all he could say was 'where's it gone, where's it gone, sorry'."

"He was very upset. He hasn't got a big vocabulary so it took a while to work out what had happened.

"He only delivers 12 papers and we let him do it because it gets him out doing something and he really enjoys it. He had delivered eight of the papers when his bike was stolen.

■ GREAT GIFT . . . Toby Cook, 14, and the missing bicycle bought as a Christmas present by his parents.

"He was in a terrible state. He loved that bike.

"I just hope the person who stole it reads the paper and it pricks their conscience. I was absolutely furious.

"We have put posters up around the town to see if anyone has seen the bike."

The cycle, a Silver Fox which cost £240, was taken from Shadowbush Close at about 4.30pm on Friday.

Mr Cook said: "He was only about 10 paces from the bike when it was taken.

"I hope someone will come forward. We are offering a reward for the return of the machine in its original condition."

Mr Cook has three children including Charlie, 16, who is also autistic and Timothy, 17, who is studying to be a pharmacist and working at Boots in Cambridge.

Kind-hearted Charlie is raising money for Hillside Special School in Sudbury where Toby goes to school and has been given a stall at Sainsbury's in Haycock Road on Saturday where he will sell ladies' shoulder bags that he made himself.

Mr Cook said: "Charlie's great at needlework and Sainsbury's said they'll give him a uniform for the day.

"He is chuffed to bits."

Trust in crime figures, police reassure public

CRIME is down by 3 per cent overall, the Home Office announced last week.

But after the astonishing attack by Sir Michael Scholar, the UK's national statistics boss, on the Government's use of "premature, irregular and selective" knife crime figures, many will view the headline-grabbing figures with a healthy degree of scepticism.

Do we trust last week's 219-page report into crime and disorder, the assurances about falling crime by Cambridgeshire Chief Constable Julie Spence or our own personal experience in and around the county?

A fresh row was brewing after it emerged the Government had asked 18 police forces, including Cambridgeshire, Essex and Hertfordshire, to review their most serious violent crime offences.

It follows claims in October that police forces were "under-counting" serious violent crimes by downgrading the offences regardless of intent. Once the errors in miscounting were corrected, it saw serious crime jump by 22 per cent.

THE credibility of police statistics has been thrown into question again after it emerged Cambridgeshire was one of 18 forces nationwide to under-report figures on violent crime. JACK GROVE asks whether we can really trust police statistics.

Dr Vincenzo Scalia, senior lecturer in criminology at Anglia Ruskin University, said it was very easy for police forces to reclassify serious crime to show a fall in violent offences.

He said: "What constitutes a violent offence can be very subjective. For instance, if a thief pushes a shopkeeper in the chest, that can easily become a robbery, rather than a theft. It's not usual for police to reclassify crimes to fit their priorities and targets.

"However, it can't be pushed too far. If there is a moral panic about rising crime and figures do not show this, the statistics lose credibility.

"But if crime is low and people are not scared of walking the streets, the community will accept these lower crime figures. It's a matter of negotiation between the public and police as to what they can accept."

But Nick Clarke, from Cambridgeshire Police Authority, defended the force's reputation, saying the miscounting had been entirely unintentional. He said: "This is a technical difference in categorising crime. For instance, if someone lunged at someone at a bar with a glass and missed that should be categorised as a 'serious crime' because of the intent, even though no-one was hurt.

"The police have been ticking the wrong box, but are now going back and rigorously ticking the right ones. The numbers will be recounted, but they are not huge and certainly not in the hundreds."

A police spokeswoman insisted there had been no manipulation of crime figures.

She said: "All violent crime has been recorded in Cambridgeshire, but revised guidelines clarifying how the figures are recorded, issued by the Home Office in April, have led to issues in relation to the interpretation of the violent crime categories.

"The way crimes are categorised can depend, for example, on the type of injury resulting from an assault, and whether the attacker intended to seriously harm the victim.

"For instance, an attack in a bar with a bottle or glass may not be regarded as being 'with intent' unless the bottle or glass are first deliberately broken. It is the need to include this kind of detail which can lead to certain crimes being recorded under the wrong category.

"Widespread media reports have suggested violent crime is being under-recorded in Cambridgeshire and elsewhere, the suggestion being that crime figures have deliberately been manipulated to show a decline in violent crime. This is not the case."

An Essex police spokesman said: "Essex police is correctly recording violent crime."

Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire have also been asked to review their information procedures.

Reassurance on job losses

REDUNDANCIES at the Vion pork processing plant will not exceed the 470 announced by the company, according to Richard Spring.

The West Suffolk MP visited the former Grampian Country Food plant in Little Wrating to get an update on job losses that are set to result from the closure of the abattoir and butchery.

Mr Spring met Brian Homewood, the managing director, at the plant on a recent constituency visit.

Mr Spring said: "I said I hoped that the 470 redundancies would be an absolute maximum. I met Brian Homewood and he gave me an assurance they would try to scale back from that number."

A company spokesman said it welcomed the MP's visit and a chance to provide him with more information.

Vion is restructuring its abattoir and sliced cooked meats operations at its plants in Haverhill and Malton, Yorkshire.

The company is proposing to close its abattoir, butchery, and some elements of its retail operations in Haverhill and it will instead focus on the production and processing of cooked meats.

Mr Spring also met Richard Ellis, East of England Development Agency (EEDA) chairman, in Westminster to discuss how to maintain the processing plant and safeguard the majority of jobs dependent on it.

BY John Downing

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Mr Spring said: "There is a terrific squeeze on margins from supermarkets and the plant has not been making a profit. This is a very unhappy situation but I hope we can make it work better."

"EEDA, St Edmundsbury Borough Council and Suffolk County Council will see what help they can give to re-skill and up-skill workers."

"I'm very happy that a working group has been set up and I hope it can provide some stability and viability for what remains. That is very important."

A consultation process on the redundancies is underway with union representatives at the plant.

The Vion announcement came just days after Dalehead Foods, part of the Tulip group, said 90 jobs could go when it closes the abattoir at its pork processing plant in Linton, which has 385 staff.

Mr Spring said the redundancies reflected pressure on the pig and pork industry in the region.

He said: "Pork meat production in Suffolk is a very important business. There is a chain reaction effect and it has an impact on the wider economy."

Advice on hepatitis C

NEARLY a third of people in the East of England do not know how hepatitis C can be passed from person to person, according to research commissioned by the Department of Health.

The findings come as a hepatitis C awareness campaign is launched to reach out to the estimated 100,000 people in England who are unaware they have the infection and to stop others getting it.

Hepatitis C is a blood-borne virus that can cause chronic infection and lead to serious liver damage or cancer.

It can be contracted by activities such as injecting drugs or getting tattoos or having acupuncture where equipment may not have been sterile.

For more information, log on to www.nhs.uk/hep or for confidential advice, call 0800 1814114.

Police seize vehicles

SUFFOLK police have reached a major landmark in the number of vehicles seized in a crackdown on drivers flouting the law. In 2008 more than 2,000 vehicles were seized as part of Operation Admiral.

Legislation under the Road Traffic Act 1988 gives police specific powers to immediately seize motor vehicles which are being used by uninsured drivers or drivers who do not have a valid driving licence. Many seizures are made following checks using Automatic Number Plate Recognition technology, which is fitted to many marked and unmarked police vehicles.

Price appeal to MP

A COUNCILLOR has written to an MP to ask for help on protecting gas customers from high prices.

Cambridgeshire county councillor Geoff Heathcock wrote to Andrew Lansley, MP for Cambridgeshire South, to ask for more pressure on the Government.

He said: "Are you and colleagues on the opposition front bench able to make appropriate representations to the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change that a stronger regulatory mechanism is required to give the consumer more protection from sharp practice and no doubt in due course even larger bills, something which will put even more vulnerable people at risk of illness or worse?"

Landlord beats digital deadline

NEARLY 1,000 tenants are enjoying the benefits of digital TV two years ahead of the area's official switchover from the analogue service.

Suffolk Housing Society has invested around £80,000 completing the work at 933 of its properties across the eastern region.

The majority of the work has been carried out in flats which share a communal aerial system, while a handful of properties run on behalf of the society by other organisations, such as Mencap, have also benefited.

Steve Clarke, chief executive of Suffolk Housing Society, said: "We are the first major landlord in the region to complete this work early, and are pleased that our tenants are now benefiting from digital TV ahead of the official switchover."

"Completing the switch on their behalf has hopefully made life easier for them, and means they can be assured they'll continue to receive a good television signal in the future."

In line with Government policy, the analogue signal will be switched off region by region, with Anglia due to change in 2011.

The whole country will be using a digital service by 2012.

Cutting jobs are 'an odd way to expand'

Sir, I read that 450 jobs will be lost at Grampian, part of the Vion Food Group; turnover £9.5 billion and with 35,000 employees. This is on top of 90 jobs lost at Dalehead Foods, part of the Tulip Group. It is claimed that this is "to grow the business". I am not a businessman but cutting the staff in half seems an odd way to expand. The population of Haverhill and Cambridge is expected to grow by a million or more over the next decade; I assume only vegetarians will get planning permission. I read many phrases of "business-speak" that outshine even politicians in the quantity of arable soil enrichment to be gained from the bull. The truth is these jobs are going abroad. Raising pigs in Romania and paring carcasses in Poland, cost less than in Wrattling or Linton. Along with the high on 600 jobs must go another 50 or so jobs from the pig industry. If we calculate that 700 jobs will be lost, with a modest average wage of £20,000, then Haverhill has allowed high on £1,500,000 a year to be exported. But this is just the basic wage, if this money was spent in private shops in Haverhill, it would be worth nearly £4,000,000 to this area, every year from now on. Do any of your readers understand this colossal loss to their town? I venture that such a sum of money would sustain and improve our quality of life beyond the wildest dreams of the duped and gullible who see only the discount at some chain store. But this is the price we pay when the only value we place on food is the price ticket. We may welcome the 50p off at the supermarket but 700 families, our friends and neighbours, are put on the dole, some will lose their homes, marriages will break up. Once we allow ourselves to be bamboozled by the dirty linen of the boardroom, who are manipulated by evil promotion-seeking employees and ruthless buyers, this recession will deepen and the quality of life that all honest people should enjoy is put back for decades.

Prison move for singer Boy George

POP star Boy George has been moved to a Suffolk prison to see out the rest of his sentence, it is claimed. The singer George O'Dowd (pictured right), best known from his days with Culture Club, is said to have been moved to the Category C jail Edmunds Hill, near Haverhill, from the London's Pentonville Prison. The 47 year old was sentenced to 15 months in jail earlier this month at Snaresbrook Crown Court for falsely imprisoning Norwegian escort Audun Carlsen and beating him with a chain. The Ministry of Justice declined to confirm or deny Boy George's whereabouts, saying: "We don't comment on the location of prisoners." It is understood Boy George was moved to Edmunds Hill, formerly part of Highpoint prison, because he may have been targeted by other inmates because of his sexuality. Others to have served time at the prison include moors murderer Myra Hindley. Blake Fielder-Civil, partner of Amy Winehouse, was also jailed there last year after assault and plotting to bribe.

Drug dealer gets eight years in jail

BY John Downing

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A DRUG dealer found in possession of a stash of drugs with a street value of £170,000 has been jailed for eight years.

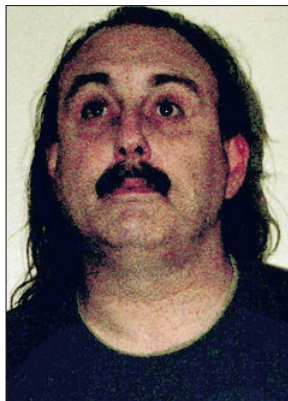

Stuart Neighbour was caught by police as he drove away from his home while officers with a search warrant were preparing to raid it on December 23 last year.

Ipswich Crown Court heard on Tuesday that Neighbour, of Thurlow Road, Great Wrating, was found to have cocaine, cannabis and LSD with an estimated value of around £170,000.

His Volkswagen Passat was stopped on the A1307 outside Haverhill and he admitted to police that cocaine was concealed in the footwell.

Patricia Doggett, prosecuting, said officers later found an 8kg block of cannabis resin in his bedroom, £3,000 in cash hidden in the bedroom fireplace and 2,690 LSD tablets in the fridge.

A Ford Escort parked outside had 1.4kg of a powdered mixture containing cocaine packed into 71 individual wraps, taking the total of the Class A drug to 2.8kg.

Analysis showed it contained 1kg of pure cocaine with a street value of £142,000, while the cannabis was valued at £24,000 and the LSD at up to £5,380.

Neighbour, 56, was charged with possession of cocaine, cannabis and LSD with intent to supply and was remanded in custody by a magistrate on Boxing Day. He admitted all three charges.

Miss Doggett said a woman passenger in the Passat when Neighbour was arrested is awaiting trial on a charge of possession of cocaine with intent to supply.

Jeremy Kendall, mitigating, said Neighbour was sentenced to 30 months in prison in January 1999 for possession of cannabis with intent to supply but became drug free.

But on his release he moved to Spain in 2003 and developed a habit costing £350 a day, funded from his mother's estate. He then worked as a "runner" and kept drugs for other people.

He accumulated debts to people who supplied him with drugs for his own use and could not separate himself from the trade.

Mr Kendall said: "He became wrapped up in that and could not see any way out."

Judge John Devaux described Neighbour's role in the drug supply chain as that of a "warehouser and runner". He said it was clear Neighbour had been offending for some time before being caught.

He ordered that 32 days Neighbour spent in custody on remand should be deducted from the prison sentence.

Site works start on medical 'pod'

By John Downing

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

WORK on the first phase of Haverhill's new health centre has begun.

Groundwork started yesterday to prepare the car park behind the Rose and Crown pub, on Withersfield Road, for a temporary medical "pod", which will offer GP services between 8am and 8pm, seven days a week.

The two-storey modular health centre will be used by a group of GPs, The Practice plc, and will cater for registered and non-registered patients from Haverhill and the surrounding area.

It will offer appointments alongside a walk-in service and the first services could be provided by May.

But as revealed by the Weekly News last year, just erecting the clinic could cost more than £248,000 a year – plus running costs – resulting in a possible overall cost of more than £740,000 over its expected three-year lifespan.

Plans for the clinic, the first of its kind in Suffolk, have received a mixed reaction.

Some critics said the clinic will provide little that is not already offered by existing GP practices and said it could even threaten their viability.

Concerns were also raised by retailers and shoppers that taking over the car park would reduce the number of town centre parking spaces.

The Practice currently provides GP services to two Suffolk prisons.

Debbie Raven, its chief oper-

■ WORKS BEGINS . . . a worker erects a fence around the site of the new health centre in Haverhill. Picture: Keith Jones 532777.

ating officer, said: "We will continue to work in close partnership with the Haverhill GPs to ensure full integration of the new centre with existing services in the area."

"Working with the health-care community rather than in competition will be key to the success of this project."

"We have established a project board, and we're delighted that Dr Andrew Cornish, a GP in the area, will become our local medical director."

Along with usual GP services, facilities will include blood testing and clinics for substance and alcohol misuse, weight management, smoking, sexual health, contraceptives and childhood obesity.

NHS Suffolk said access to car parking for residents and businesses will be maintained according to the conditions of the lease and planning permission.

Patrons of the Rose and Crown pub will continue to have full and free access to the car park.

The centre is expected to be in place for no more than three years, and once the lease expires the site area will return to St Edmundsbury Borough Council.

Work is under way to secure a permanent home for the services, which could involve a purpose-built centre or refurbished facility.

Landlord gets the thumbs up

■ PLEASED ... Steve Cook says the survey results will help improve its service to tenants.

MORE than nine out of 10 tenants who completed a survey are happy with the service provided by Havebury Housing Partnership.

The social landlord's tenant satisfaction survey found 92 per cent of tenants who responded are very or fairly satisfied overall.

This represents a 7 per cent improvement compared to the last survey in 2006 and a rise of 13 per cent on the first survey in 2002. More than 50 per cent of tenants took part.

In 2008, compared to 2006, the percentage of tenants who said they were fairly or very satisfied has increased or stayed the same in 13 out of the 16 different areas they were questioned about.

There was a slight decrease in satisfaction with the ease of getting hold of the right person and the helpfulness of staff, matters Havebury said it is addressing through a review.

Steve Cook, Havebury's chief executive, said: "So many tenants taking part in the survey has given us a really good picture of what's working well and the things we still need to improve."

"I would like to thank all the tenants who took part because it will help us improve what we do."

Havebury, which was set up to serve the public sector housing needs of the West Suffolk and Cambridge sub-region, owns 6,000 homes.

It recently announced that 15 staff will lose their jobs.

Ten posts will be made redundant on March 31 and five will go on September 30.

Pre-school's joy at £178k

A VILLAGE pre-school is doubly delighted after winning funds for a new building and being praised by Ofsted inspectors.

Thurlo-Bradley and District Pre-School has been awarded £178,000 by Suffolk County Council for its project to replace the portable building it currently occupies in the grounds of Thurlo Primary School.

Mathew Cowell, pre-school committee secretary and project manager, said: "The current building is outdated and beyond its designed life."

"Building the new facility is important in meeting Ofsted's Every Child Matters objectives and allowing us to offer affordable childcare for local people.

"We are very grateful to all parties who have supported us and contributed to making our dream achievable."

Ofsted inspectors have also recently awarded the pre-school ratings of "good" in all areas of provision.

Mr Cowell said: "From the perspective of our committee it is wonderful to be able to support our staff just as they are enjoying such success in the classroom."

Work on the new building is expected to start in April in time to open for the start of the new academic year in September.

■ OVERLOOKED ... Cllr John Batchelor, inset, said the A1307 should have taken priority.

No cash for road scheme

A COUNCILLOR who pleaded for cash to make the A1307 safer is saddened after it missed out on a £450,000 grant.

Cllr John Batchelor, who represents Linton on both South Cambridgeshire and Cambridgeshire County Councils, begged Cambridgeshire County Council's cabinet to put money aside for improvements to Hildersham crossroads on the A1307.

But the money, which was secured by the council from Granta Park after granting it permission to expand in 2006, will pay for a cycleway from Sawston to Abington, via Babraham, with any remainder left for the A1307.

Cllr Batchelor said: "It is disappointing that the cycle route, a project that offered no business plan, no projection of usage and no evidence that it would be value for money, has been allowed to go forward.

"My view is that the A1307 should have taken priority as it addresses the direct effect of the Granta Park development - increased traffic - and had every prospect of making a contribution towards a safer road

BY Raymond Brown

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

and could save lives.

"I will be watching the cycle project closely to make sure it does not go over budget and that sufficient money is found to go ahead with the Hildersham turn."

Although Hildersham has been overlooked for the time being, work began this week at the A1307's accident-blighted junction with Horseheath Green Road.

Linton Village College pupils Imogen Barker and Alice Westland both died when they tried to cross the 60mph section of the A1307 after stepping off buses there.

The scheme, which is expected to take 11 weeks to complete, would see the creation of a pedestrian island with crossing facilities and footways, new bus shelters and street lighting. The road junction will be resurfaced, widened and a new right-turn lane installed.

Horseheath Green Road will be closed during some works at the junction but no carriageway works or traffic lights used during peak times.

Council tax hike 'will hit poorest'

AN INFLATION-BUSTING council tax rise that will leave the average Cambridgeshire household paying more than £1,000 to Shire Hall this year has been condemned as "ridiculous".

The county council last week announced that it will increase its portion of the tax bill by 4.7 per cent from April.

If other councils and the police and fire authorities follow suit, householders in an 'average' Band D property in Cambridgeshire can expect to fork out a total of around £1,400 this year for services.

County council bosses blamed a measly Government grant that amounted to an increase of just £1.71 per person for the tax hike.

But disability campaigner Gerri Bird, of Grieve Court, Chesterton, said: "I think it's a ridiculous rise. A lot of people are going to really struggle with that kind of an increase."

"As a resident it's going to put my bill up a lot and I don't think I am getting value for money at all - the roads aren't being done and a lot of other things are a constant struggle to get completed."

Cllr John Reynolds, the Conservative-controlled council's cabinet member for finance, defended the rise.

He said: "We are one of the lowest-funded authorities and we will be one of these engines of growth in the region, not just for Cambridgeshire but for the whole country.

"I'm really disappointed the Government seems to have neglected us in that respect."

"People will be worried about services they will need to have in a growing county. We will probably be the third or fourth lowest council tax in the country, an increase of £46 is probably going to be even below the average increase."

He added: "Some services like adult care, to deliver improved services we make to people, we need transformation and transition. We are looking at how we can support people in extremely difficult circumstances."

But Cllr David Jenkins, leader of the county's opposition Liberal Democrat group, said the announcement was "really disappointing". He said: "There is a recession out there, a lot of people are hurting and they should have given it a better shot for a lower council tax rate."

Cllr Paul Sales, who leads the Labour group, said: "It's completely regrettable in the current financial circumstances. That is not going to help anybody. It's going to hit the poorest people hardest."

He also accused the Conservative administration of "spin" for saying services are not being cut when £8 million in savings are being made in community and adult services.

The bulk of the cash will come from helping people get back on their feet after an illness as well as negotiating over price increases with contractors and also making sure existing contracts offer good value for money. Robert Boorman, treasurer for Cambridgeshire Older People's Enterprise (COPE), said: "When you consider the state pension is only going up £4.55 a week from April 6 that means 25 per cent of that roughly will go on the county council tax increase before you even start."

"COPE are aware of the growing number pensioners who will need increased care and as the Government are not fully funding that care it is inevitable that the council must increase council tax in this way."

The county council's portion of the tax bill pays for services including education, social care and transport. Its bill for Band D householders is set to rise from £1,025.10. District, city and parish councils, and the police and fire authorities have yet to confirm their plans, but equivalent rises would leave Cambridge residents paying £1,409.18 while those in South Cambridgeshire would pay £1,358.67.

Drug dealer avoids jail

A DRUG dealer caught with cocaine hidden in his socks has escaped a jail sentence.

Ben Franklin, 22, was also found to have cannabis and materials used for wrapping drugs in his bedroom after police executed a warrant to search his home in Shepherd Court, Haverhill.

Franklin appeared at Ipswich Crown Court on Friday to be sentenced after pleading guilty to possession of crack cocaine and herbal cannabis with intent to supply.

Patricia Doggett, prosecuting, said on October 9, 2007, police with a warrant arrived at the house where Franklin lived with three other people.

All the occupants were searched and Franklin was found to have concealed a wrap of crack cocaine, worth £1,340, in each of his socks.

Officers discovered a large quantity of a herbal substance in his bedroom, which was analysed and found to be cannabis. Also seized by police was £385 in cash, a set of scales and wrapping materials.

Miss Doggett said fingerprints found on the wrapping material matched those of Franklin.

Neil MacAuley said in mitigation that after moving to Haverhill Franklin had become involved with the local drug scene.

Franklin had been given money by his father to go on a trip but had instead spent the money on gambling and purchasing cocaine.

Mr MacAuley said Franklin had suffered a "disturbed" upbringing and problems at school but over the last eight months he had been in regular employment for the first time in his life, working for a window manufacturing firm.

Judge David Goodin ordered Franklin to remain under Probation Service supervision for 12 months and complete 180 hours of unpaid work.

He was also told he must pay £200 towards the cost of the prosecution.

Moulding a superb company

WITH local job cuts and company closures hitting the news lately, it seems the credit crunch is hitting the district's economy hard. However one long-established Haverhill company is bucking the trend.

Form Mould and Tooling, based on the Spring Rise industrial estate, is a true Haverhill success story. Founded more than 30 years ago, the company is one of the UK's leading specialist plastic injection moulders. Through recent investment they can now offer customers the complete package, and business doesn't look set to slow down.

"The company was run by my father, Bev Fox, and his business partner, Spencer Tatum, for 26 years until they retired four years ago," says co-owner Gary Fox. "That's when I took over with my business partner, David Steel, so it's a real family business."

Form Mould and Tooling are constantly developing cutting-edge techniques that are now used across the moulding industry. They regularly design, develop and manufacture plastic-based products for the medical, automotive, lighting and scientific industries across the world.

■ BUCKING THE TREND ... Spring Rise firm is a true Haverhill success story, with a full order book to April and more to follow thanks to a weak pound.

"We're also one of the few firms in the UK that do micro-moulding, and recently joined forces with STV Ltd, one of Europe's largest suppliers in micro-moulding machines, to exhibit at the International Micro Manufacturing Exhibition at the Rioch Arena in October 2009. This really highlights how far the company has come," says Gary.

"We're very busy at present – in fact we've got a full order book until April. If anything, the credit crunch has done us a favour as we're starting to get business from people who were using manufacturers in China. However now, because of the weak pound and the increased cost of shipping and fuel, they're coming to us instead."

Often sought-after for their specialist knowledge, the company is continuing to expand, with a customer base that stretches across the UK and around the world.

Reward for gay equality stance

BY Raymond Brown

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

SUFFOLK County Council and Customer Services Direct have made the Stonewall Top 100 Employers for the second year running.

The index ranks Britain's top employers for gay staff and this year included the largest ever survey of lesbian and gay employees, with almost 7,000 participants.

Suffolk County Council and CSD are at 92 in the table and are one of only six county councils who made the top 100.

The council has diversity champions in place at all levels of the workforce to drive forward equalities for staff and customers.

They also look into the experiences of gay and lesbian people and measure the outcomes of equality and diversity initiatives.

Cllr Jeremy Pembroke, council leader, said: "We're very proud to have been awarded a position in the Stonewall Top 100 Employers list.

"It's such a big reward for all the effort that so many people have put in and represents how Suffolk County Council is committed to equality and diversity throughout the work we do.

"Suffolk is an inclusive county council and I am very proud that we are amongst the few county councils in the UK who have been recognised for our successes in equality and diversity."

Roadshow promotes healthy eating

A COOKERY roadshow will showcase some of the region's tastiest food in March.

The Feast East festival is a family-focused event to highlight the benefits of healthy locally-grown food to children and their families.

The two-day show will take place at Chilford Hall, in Linton, on Friday, March 6 and Saturday, March 7, and will include a host of interactive events for children, teachers and parents.

Professional artists, gardeners and cooks will run a range of workshops inspired by food to educate visitors about healthy eating, the environment and agriculture.

Children will have the chance to make their own recycled pots filled with delicious herbs, create their own "food people" and do their own handmade prints with vegetables.

Tickets for the event cost between £5 to £7 for adults, while admission is for children under 16. Additional costs apply for certain craft events.

To book a ticket, call Tastes of Anglia on (01473) 785 883 or go to www.feasteast.co.uk

Roll on Red Riding Hood

CENTRE Stage Company continue with their hilarious version of Red Riding Hood until Saturday at the Haverhill Arts Centre. Tickets are going fast so don't delay if you want to come along.

■ The laughs just keep coming at the arts centre with a comedy night on Sunday starring three stand-up comedians from the UK circuit to blast you silly. John Gordillo is "one of our finest stand-ups" says the Evening Standard, Imran Yusuf delivers "so many great gags in such a short time" according to Roar With Laughter and Dougie Dunlop is "a natural born funny man" raves The List. It starts at 8pm.

■ Angelina Jolie and John Malkovich star in Changeling (15), which was inspired by actual events that occurred in 1920s Los Angeles. Director Clint Eastwood tells the story of a woman driven to confront a corrupt LAPD after her son is abducted but realises the boy returned to her is not her son. It shows at the arts centre next Wednesday and Thursday at 7.45pm.

■ As there are now only two heats for the Haverhill Rock competition instead of three, Heat 1 will now take place at the arts centre on Saturday, February 7.

■ For more details about the shows, or to book tickets, phone (01440) 714140 or go to www.haverhillartscentre.co.uk

Jazz up those winter blues with top names

By Nik Shelton

THE Cambridge Modern Jazz Club returns for a new season tomorrow with an appearance from guitarist John Etheridge and violinist Chris Garrick.

The two virtuoso instrumentalists have played alongside many of the finest jazz and classical musicians in the world and together create music using free improvisation, acoustic and electric instruments, recorded loops and inspiration from Richard Thompson to Django Reinhardt. The Jazz Club's season continues on Friday, February 20, with Tim Garland's Lighthouse Trio at Kettle's Yard.

The saxophone player and composer has made a name for himself working for seven years alongside Chick Corea and four with Bill Bruford. His current band is part of his ongoing Lighthouse Project which sees him bringing together global influences from the East to the Mediterranean as well as orchestral sounds to create contemporary compositions. The group is completed by Israeli percussionist Asaf Sirkis and piano virtuoso Gwilym Simcock.

■ FINE FRETWORK... John Etheridge.

John Etheridge returns to the city, this time at The Junction, on February 26, accompanied by the supergroup The Zappatistas. The group pays tribute to jazz fusion legend Frank Zappa and as well as Etheridge its members include keyboard player Steve Lodder, trumpeter Rory Simmons, trombonist Annie Whitehead and drummer Mike Bradley. In March the club welcomes veteran British jazz star Stan Tracey to Kettle's Yard. The 81-year-old pianist has been performing for 60 years and has played alongside the likes of Stan Getz, Zoot Sims and Sonny Rollins. Worry and overwork could take a toll on your health. If you want to exorcise subconscious demons, get a pen and some paper. Describe the issue you're grappling with, then work out what the worst case scenario could be. After reading it, you'll realise your fears are probably unfounded.

Arguments with a youngster could erupt. They want more freedom, but you're worried about their security. It's important to examine whether their accusations of being smothered are well founded. Sure, there are a lot of dangers out there, but you've got to teach them how to cope with them.

Family may not support a career move. Usually, you don't bother about other's approval. This time it hurts to think relatives don't believe in your abilities. Perhaps they think you're shirking your responsibilities. If that's the case, scale back your efforts. Right now children's needs should trump your desires.

Negative thinking could prevent you from reaching the top of your game. If you're going on a job interview, the more upbeat you are, the better your chances. This same principle goes for dating. Don't spend the entire evening running down former partners. Talk about your future plans instead.

No matter how hard you work, it may be difficult to save money, because you have so many outgoings. When this happens, you need to consult a financial manager who can help you. There's no shame in getting help. Actually, letting this problem spiral out of control is worse.

It's hard to trust someone who seems erratic. But they just have a different set of values from yours. By studying their movements, you'll see a method to their madness. Unlike you, they have no interest in upholding the status quo. Their objective is more modern models that offer greater personal freedom.

Feeling lonely in a big crowd is a strange sensation. It's not that you want to be an outsider. It's just that the people around you have such different priorities. You're captivated by politics, art and culture, while they seem to be wrapped up in petty gossip. It may be time to seek greener pastures.

The legendary sound of skiffle lives on . . .

■ SKIFFLE MEN . . . Paul Leegan & The Legends will be at the Haverhill Arts Centre later this month.

THE sound of skiffle is sure to have the crowd on their feet in a concert to celebrate the roots of British rock music.

Paul Leegan & The Legends will bring the skiffle era to life at the Haverhill Arts Centre on Friday, February 27.

The unique fusion of blues, folk, country and jazz that was termed skiffle influenced pop and rock stars of the 50s and 60s.

Sir Paul McCartney, Mick Jagger, John

Lennon, Joe Brown and Van Morrison emerged from the skiffle craze, along with Lonnie Donegan, the so-called King of Skiffle.

The show, Putting On The Style, includes hits such as Rock Island Line, Tom Dooley, Have A Drink On Me and Putting On The Style.

Tickets are priced at £12.50 and are available from the arts centre box office on (01440) 714140.

YOUR GUIDE TO MOVING HOME

1 Moving home can be a complicated business and, in the hectic run to the big day, it is all too easy to forget something vital. The Property News offers their readers this handy checklist that should help avoid major pitfalls. We suggest you tick off the items as you deal with them...

WITH FOUR WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Get estimates from removal companies, checking that comprehensive insurance cover is available against damage or loss. Is there a packing and unpacking service? Confirm the date of your move with the firm you have chosen.
- ☐ Check on your home contents insurance policies to ensure that you are covered for the move, and covered at your new address.
- ☐ Make arrangements for your gas and electricity meters (plus water meters where relevant) to be read and all your appliances to be disconnected on the day of your move.
- ☐ Arrange to take over gas and electricity at your new address, and make sure that all appliances will be properly fitted, plumbed or connected.
- ☐ Notify British Telecom and ask them to make the necessary arrangements for a final account at your present address, and for taking over or installing telephone facilities at your new home.
- ☐ Arrange for change of address cards to be printed.

WITH TWO WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Confirm all arrangements, times etc, for meter readings, disconnections and reconnections, with authorities and with your buyer and seller.
- ☐ Make sure you have a good stock of packing materials, including sturdy boxes and plenty of string and sticky tape.
- ☐ Begin to throw out unwanted items from attics, wardrobes. What you really don't want you may as well dump now, or send to charity. It's a great time for a good sort out!

WITH ONE WEEK TO GO:

- ☐ Send off change of address cards.
- ☐ Arrange and pay for automatic redirection of your mail by the Post Office.
- ☐ Cancel and pay up accounts for routine delivery services such as milk, groceries, fuel and your Cambridge Evening News. Re-organise these deliveries for your new address.
- ☐ Defrost refrigerators in preparation for move and, if you are moving a freezer and its contents, turn it up to maximum for a couple of days before you move.

WITH ONE DAY TO GO:

- ☐ Complete your packing except for those items you are likely to need overnight, and prepare a picnic for moving day.
- ☐ Have a large enough cash 'float' available to deal with unexpected expenses, and make sure you have collected documents and valuables together in a safe place.
- ☐ Cover carpets which are being left behind, so as to minimise damage during furniture removal.
- ☐ Check through previous lists to make sure nothing has been overlooked, then enjoy a worry-free early night!

2 ON MOVING DAY:

- ☐ Strip beds and pack bedding and nightclothes.
- ☐ Pack items for washing/toiletries.
- ☐ Take down curtains.
- ☐ Take up rugs, carpets, floor coverings, as required.
- ☐ Dismantle any light fittings etc., not included in the sale.
- ☐ Turn off electric appliances.
- ☐ Disconnect cooker.
- ☐ Turn off boiler/central heating.
- ☐ Turn off water.
- ☐ Read gas meter.
- ☐ Read electricity meter.
- ☐ Secure all windows.
- ☐ Lock all doors.
- ☐ Leave key as arranged with new owners.
- ☐ On arrival at your new home, unpack slowly and methodically so that you can check for loss or damage.

3 EXTRA HINTS FOR A SMOOTH MOVE...

WHO TO NOTIFY:

- ☐ Banks.
- ☐ Building Societies.
- ☐ Credit companies.
- ☐ Insurance companies.
- ☐ Gas, Electricity and Water Boards.
- ☐ Telephone company.
- ☐ Local Authority (Rating Department).
- ☐ Driving Licence authorities.
- ☐ Inland Revenue.
- ☐ Store cards and accounts.

PIPPED at the post for the 2009 European Car of the Year title, Ford's Fiesta has just redressed the balance in the newly-announced What Car? magazine awards.

The Fiesta lost out by just one point to the Vauxhall Insignia family car for the European honour, announced last November, in what was the closest Car Of The Year contest for years.

But the Blue Oval's best-selling supermini has more than made up for that by scooping the What Car? Car of the Year title.

Furthermore, Ford's win was supplemented with top honours in the supermini - Fiesta again - family car, and estate car categories.

The Ford models that made the grade in those respective sections were the Fiesta 1.25i 82 Zetec five-door, the Mondeo 2.0 TDCi Zetec five-door, and the Mondeo Estate 2.0 TDCi Zetec.

Perhaps the win, announced at a glittering ceremony at the

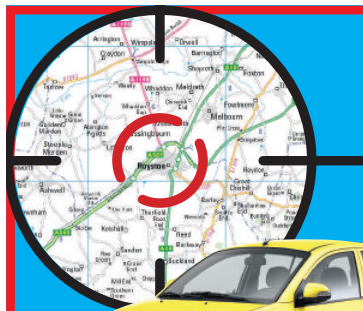

■ THE FORD FIESTA... 'What Car?' Car of the Year winner.

Grosvenor House Hotel on London's Park Lane, was made all the sweeter for Ford by the failure of the Vauxhall Insignia to merit even a mention in the 16 What Car? categories.

What Car? editor Steve Fowler says of the new Car of the Year: "The Fiesta is the right car at the right time - small in size, but big on ability. We love the way it looks and the way it drives, but it stacks up as a shrewd buy, offering space and quality, while being affordable to buy and run."

Other winners included the Citroen Grand C4 Picasso - a three-time winner in the MPV category - Nissan's new GT-R in the performance car category, Volvo's XC60 in the SUV category, and the Audi TT in the coupe category.

Superminis are ace used value

THE supermini has long been seen as the most sensible option for consumers looking for a low-cost, value-for-money used car.

But growing numbers of buyers are likely to be tempted by larger family models in 2009, according to EurotaxGlass's.

Last year, small cars stood out as being almost recession-proof on the second-hand market, with high levels of demand supporting good residual values.

It is unlikely that this trend can continue, predicts Rushmore.

"Used car buyers will find that many superminis are now being priced higher than lower and upper-medium vehicles of the same age. This is in response to strong demand for smaller vehicles over recent months, coupled with the drop in prices of bigger cars."

"Therefore, consumers have a good opportunity to secure more car for their money in the family saloon sector. Buyers should be able to find a relatively high-specification vehicle for similar cost to that of a smaller alternative."

Finally, while there's a lot of talk at the moment about how you can buy big 4x4s and luxury cars for next to nothing, the problem is these vehicles have to be fuelled and insured, says buyer advice website UsedCarExpert.com.

Editor Matt Tumbridge, looks at three small cars with tiny fuel bills and minuscule insurance premiums, for very reasonable money:

■ Citroen C2: "This tiny town centre assault vehicle is easy to live with. It has a very comfortable ride, plus decent specifications help make it a true all-rounder."

Most economical version, the 1.4 Hdi, returns 68.9mpg overall, and best used buy is the 1.1 LX, in insurance group 2.

UsedCarExpert.com has 9 pre-buy

■ THE KA ... 'one of the best'.

fault checks listed online, and prices a 2006 1.1 LX, with 19,000 average miles, at around £5,000.

■ Fiat Punto: "Very good value new, and very cheap used. They have plenty of room, which makes Puntos extremely practical, and running costs are low."

Most economical model, the 1.5 Multijet, returns 62.8mpg, and best used buy is the 1.2 Active, in insurance group 8.

UsedCarExpert.com lists eight fault checks, and prices a 2006 1.2 Active, with 17,000 average miles, at the £4,475 mark.

■ Ford Ka: "One of the very best city cars, it is now an old model, but it still looks and drives as sharply as ever. Running costs are small, and availability is excellent at some great prices."

Most economical version, the 43.5mpg 1.3 70ps, is also the best used

UsedCarExpert.com has 10 checks to watch for, and prices a 1.3 from 2006, with 12,500 average miles, at around £4,850.

YOUTH FOOTBALL

Gunners' fightback fails to reap reward

Hardwick Harriers U15 4
Grampian Gunners U15 2

CAMBS COLTS LEAGUE, DIVISION 15A
A SHOCKING first-half display by the Gunners saw them two down at the break.

Individual mistakes cost the visitors but overall the team were at best poor.

Just before half time Grampian's Jordan Jackson saw his penalty saved by the home keeper.

The second half was a complete turnaround as Grampian, with all three subs on (Evans, Abbott and Pryke), were a different team.

Three minutes into the half saw Abbott's cross headed down by Youngs for Brown to score from the edge of the box. Then Evans and Youngs combined to send Halls away and his pinpoint cross found Bailey, who skied over from six yards.

Twelve minutes from time, fine play in midfield saw Brown release Halls, who finished in style.

It should have been the visitors who went on to win, but, with five minutes remaining, a very tame shot from 25 yards found its way into the Grampian net. Another goal deep in stoppage time added salt to the already deep wounds.

Larkin nips in with a last-ditch leveller

DESPITE spending long periods in Thurlow's half, Wrattling had to wait until the 20th minutes for the breakthrough, which came when man-of-the-match Charlie Ellam slotted home after a fine run. Dion Whitrid then made it 2-0 just before half time with a cracking shot. Wrattling started the second half well, but Thurlow had not given up and the next goal would be crucial. The visitors chased the third score, but Brandon Dickson pulled off

Thurlow U11 2 West Wrattling U11 2

CAMBS MINI LEAGUE, DIVISION 11
several outstanding saves for Thurlow. Jordan Grandinetti scored for Thurlow late on and, with time rapidly running out, Cameron Larkin equalised, which was the hosts' reward for not giving up. Even in the last minute both keepers – Ellis Wiffen, for Wrattling, and Thurlow's Dickson had to pull off great saves.

Whittlesford Warriors U11 2 Grampian Gunners U11 1

CAMBS MINI LEAGUE, DIVISION 11A
GRAMPIAN started brightly, Jason Moore, Jamie Lingard and Aaron Thorne combining well down the right to set up several early chances which were squandered.

Jack Davis and Bailey Cassidy were outstanding at the back, shutting out Whittlesford and reducing their chances to just one shot in the half, which they took well scoring just before the interval.

Josh Mathewson nearly levelled, but could not quite reach the cross. The second half saw Toby Daly's workrate rocket, providing some fine wing play, and, along with Jack Ferguson's crosses and George Mustoe's directness, saw Grampian again take the game to the hosts.

Lewis Knightly pulled off a superb point-blank save, but Whittlesford finished well to go 2-0 up.

Man-of-the-match Ashley Wyatt was superb on his debut passing the ball around well, setting up Cassidy, who had his shot blocked but Davis was at hand to smash home the loose ball.

Despite their efforts, Grampian ran out of time to equalise against a mean Whittlesford defence.

RUGBY UNION

Haverhill serve up a real treat

EVERY so often ever dedicated parents are rewarded with watching a game of rugby involving their offspring that makes them proud and on Sunday was one such day.

More than 30 boys battled for 50 minutes desperate to secure victory in a fast-moving match with two evenly-matched sides, where quick penalties were the order of the day.

Early exchanges saw both sides move up the field and defend strongly and it took 20 minutes before an individual piece of skill from Sam Daly to collect the ball from a scrum won against the head to run 60 metres to lay off to Garath Lester to touch down.

Almost immediately, Walden replied, attacking up field in a succession of phases to score a try, plus the crucial two points from a conversion.

The first half finished with Walden leading 7-5.

Both sides came out for the second period, determined to not let conditions dictate and kept the game fast moving.

Within five minutes of the

Haverhill U14 15 Saffron Walden U14 12

YOUTH FRIENDLY
re-start Haverhill's Harry Marsh scored from a move started from a quick penalty assisted by his forward pack.

Saffron Walden benefited from winning a lot of ball from challenges in the rucks and took the lead from a quick penalty to score a converted try under the posts.

Haverhill replied instantly and, from yet another quick penalty on their opposition's 22, Daly ran in an individual try through the Walden defence.

Toby Pink missed the conversion after hitting the upright.

The final quarter saw prop Jonathan Glenister denied a try on his return after a Haverhill foot crossed the touchline in the build-up.

The final tense minutes saw Walden try to kick for position to get up field to score a winning try, but a well-drilled Haverhill closed any openings they created to secure a victory.

Bergin's men pay high price for a poor start

COMPLACENCY contributed to Haverhill's downfall as they went down 15-8 to Harwich and Dovercourt in Eastern Counties Two on Saturday. An early try from the hosts was met with a reply from a penalty by Jake Plumridge for Haverhill, before another score from Harwich gave them a 10-3 half-time lead.

EASTERN COUNTIES LEAGUE, DIVISION TWO

Harwich got another score shortly after the break, and despite Ryan Raffell's touch down, Haverhill could not get anything out of the match.

"It was a bit of complacency on our part, as we went into the first half, half-hearted," said Haverhill skipper Paul Bergin. "We let them run at us, were not tackling and let them try things, playing to their strengths and our weaknesses. "We hammered their line for the last 30 minutes, but it was too late."

Youngs a thorn in Rovers' side

A SCRAPPY game at Mildenhall saw the hosts prevail at Recreation Way on Tuesday evening, thanks to two Tom Youngs goals either side of the half-time break.

Rovers had been lacking competitive action due to games being postponed, and it showed in the first half as Town took control. Youngs put them ahead in the 25th minute and then added a second five minutes into the second half.

Rovers substitute James Walker had their best chances but was unable to find a way through the Town defence. Rovers' scheduled league match at Wivenhoe on Saturday was postponed due to a waterlogged pitch.

Haverhill are without a match this coming Saturday, but Peter Betts' men are due to return to league action on Tuesday evening when Needham Market will be the visitors to Hamlet Croft.
